

If you have ever been concerned about your prospects in the 'afterlife', particularly with regard to the possibility of going to Hell, then please be assured that all the stories and myths and warnings have twisted the facts. This isn't to say there won't be Hell to pay if you have hurt someone or hurt yourself, but Hell is not an eternal punishment; rather, Hell is just a part of our path upon our spiritual journey, and Hell can be a wonderful place to visit once you understand what is really going on there.

Hell in a Nutshell

Do you believe in Hell?

One wonder of creation is that whatever our beliefs may be, our beliefs have power and can influence what we will experience in life or in death. So if you believe in Hell you may be heading there; particularly if you harbor pain, regret, or sorrow in your heart.

We can tell you this because we have returned from Hell many times. It turned out to be very different from what we at first believed.

At first it was a lot like the descriptions from Dante's Inferno, bibles, or other cultural sources in television, movies, comic-books, or novels. But the similarities existed because our minds had incorporated these cultural models into our concepts of the afterlife.

The first details of Hell which we experienced turned out to be illusions of our minds and these slowly fell away from us over time as we revisited Hell more frequently and became more familiar with what was going on there.

There were guides through Hell who appeared as we needed them, but these guides turned out not to be the fiends of Hell that they appeared to be at first.

Our guides through Hell were more angelical than demonic in nature but it took us time to realize that their intent was helpful and compassionate rather than dire or malign.

Our guides returned us to our path over and over again by both direct and indirect means until at last we reached the very center of Hell. We discovered that the throne of Hell is not in the center of the Earth as stories and myths have told; instead, the center of Hell was in the center of our heart. You will find Hell in your own heart too if you are burdened by remorse or regret.

These might seem like alarming words, but please bear with us; one of the mysteries revealed to us is that Hell is not at all a bad place. The literal meaning of Hell is, after all, Light.

The alleged ruler of Hell, Lucifer, is also known as the Angel of Light. But Lucifer is not really the ruler of Hell; Lucifer has been conflated with other notions of Hell's ruler, such as Satan, or The Devil.

The ruler of Hell has sometimes been known as the Prince of Darkness, not because this ruler creates darkness, but rather, because they have the power of Light over Darkness and can thereby master the darkness in our hearts to banish it.

Likewise, the Angel of Light may sometimes be known as the Master of Lies because they recognize all the lies that dwell in our hearts and reveal the truth to us thereby empowering us to banish those lies and self-deceits we have mistakenly chosen to believe.

Anyways...

We arrived at the center of Hell after many mysterious delays and weird wanderings. There we found ourselves confronted by the Devil Himself. Well, he looked pretty ugly, horribly terrifying, and wildly wicked. We were feeling some trepidation as we approached the Being before us. Yet, as we approached we sensed compassion and warmth of character radiating from this frightful creature and we continued to approach. We were attracted by the sense of well-being that filled us in His presence. As we approached we could feel our heart opening up and changing, becoming lighter and brighter.

The countenance of the One before us changed as we approached, becoming less demonic in appearance and more angelical with every step we took until we were running to embrace the One who stood in the very center of Hell, in the center of our heart.

In our last steps the angelical countenance of this being vanished and was replaced with a vision of the Christ spirit. Yet, as we embraced this Divine Being we discovered it was our own self whom we embraced. The one who had appeared before us in the countenance of Christ was but the final guide along our way to remembering our own divinity.

In that wonderful embrace many illusions fell away from our minds and we felt the eternal presence of a Universal Spirit; we were transported to Heaven. We were no longer any of our Earthly incarnations; instead we had awakened to our Eternal Self, the divine being we have always been.

Namaste

It was a most joyous occasion; an occasion which we were always dying to experience.

We made this journey through Hell many times through many mortal experiences of death and spiritual returns to our eternal 'other-life'.

(Please note, the term 'after-life' is an entirely inadequate term, there is only life after life; death is but another of many illusions.)

As our experiences with dying and our other-lives were repeated they became more familiar. Our memories of these experiences became strong enough to blossom in our cognitive awareness which is why we can now relate these experiences to you.

As we became more familiar with death and our other-lives we learned we have three choices when we die.

- Either we may choose to be resurrected; this means we are returned to another iteration of whatever incarnation we have just departed to carry on our life as if we had not just died.
- Or we may be reincarnated to begin a different life through conception and birth into a world that may be very different from the life we had just passed away from.
- Or we may abide awhile in the spirit world, a world resembling Heaven, Nirvana, or whatever your best beliefs about the so-called 'after-life' may be; a place we share with all of our family and friends, a place of self-renewal where we may abide as long as we like before choosing to return to an incarnate form for further adventures, experience, or growth.

We learned that before we may avail ourselves of any of these options we have only one duty to ourselves. We must become clear. We must acknowledge all the hurtful things in our hearts, those things which we did or said which brought pain or suffering to others or to ourselves. We have only ourselves to answer to in the ultimate moment of death; we need only be truthful with ourselves to pass through this moment of illumination to move on to bliss and beyond.

Unfortunately, we have often had some difficulty in facing ourselves and acknowledging the truth within ourselves. It has been our resistance to the truth about ourselves in our own hearts which has made the journey through Hell into the light so tortuous and torturous.

It is understood by Spirit that some spirits will run from the light rather than face it which is why our guides through Hell may trick us into running to the light when we might otherwise resist. Our guides through Hell are partly made from psychological projections of parts of ourselves who know the truth in our hearts, guides who understand what we are running away from.

Because we resist or flee our guides sometimes use misdirection and deceit to get us to confront the pain and sorrow in our hearts so that we may release ourselves from bondage to our poorly chosen paths of regret and suffering.

Eventually we may find our way through Hell, even if it takes an eternity or two, or more... An eternity is, after all, only a single moment in the other-life. As long as it takes us to heal is as long as we need it to be, neither more nor less. Once that dreaded moment of confronting the worst pain and suffering in ourselves has passed we become free to be the pure beings of light we have always been, beings who, in their infinite incarnations, sometimes become confused and burdened by lifetimes in which we learn to feel pain, sorrow and regret.

All people have always been spiritual beings of universal love, it just takes time to remember this in times when we have momentarily forgotten who and what we truly are.

Hell la lu Jah! ...(translates as "Light From You God").

Now please go to Hell! ...but first wait for us to share your journey with you.

Enjoy!

BIO:

Hello Reader,

We have been collectively known by the name Greg Gourdian for the purposes of publishing our articles. We are a group of people spanning many worlds and universes; we cohabit many bodies however we have only one body here in this world we share with you now.

We worked with the general public as a psychic reader for a little over four years from 1981 to 1986.

Much of our written work has been channeled however we must often admit that we have no idea to whom the many voices of our channeled works may belong.

We have many strange tales to tell regarding our spiritual journeys. We try to tell our tales in a humorous, engaging, or entertaining manner.

While we were a high-school student we channeled or taught classes in metaphysics & parapsychology, sociology, and psychology.

We are still emerging from the closet in regard to being a collective of many people inhabiting what appears to be a single body in the context of the world we appear to share with you. Our current written works reflect this new change in perspective as we have adopted plural forms of reference to ourselves that may not always appear consistently, particularly in our older work. Using plural forms of self-reference helps us develop a greater awareness of ourselves as a collective as well as conveying to other people how we perceive ourselves.

We hope you will understand if we sometimes may sound awkward or conceited as a consequence of making this adjustment in how we refer to ourselves.

Our group's primary beliefs share these ideals:

That love should be universal.

That liberty is a gift similar to love, a gift that may be enjoyed better by giving it to everyone.

That justice is best served by not judging.
